Landmark memorandum signed

Canada-Israel trade looking good

An important step forward in the promotion of bilateral trade between Canada and Israel was realized here recently with the signing of a landmark Memorandum of Understanding.

The ceremony took place on April 1 at a luncheon held at Kinneret, official residence of the Ambassador of Israel to Canada, following successful negotiations by a Canada-Israel Joint Economic Commission (JEC) held in Ottawa.

The Canadian delegation, headed by the Hon. Michael Wilson, minister of Industry, Science and Technology and minister for International Trade met with an Israeli delegation headed by Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Industry and Trade Moshe Nissim in Ottawa March 31-April 1.

The purpose of the Commission was to promote bilateral trade between Canada and Israel, and to facilitate economic and technical cooperation in mutually agreed sectors of importance.

Prior to the meeting of the JEC, Minister Nissim and an Israeli business delegation met with their Canadian counterparts in a unique Canada-Israel Technology Co-operation Forum held in Toronto, March 26 and 27 and in Montreal on March 30. The forum was designed to foster greater private-sector linkages through joint ventures and technology transfer.

Although it is too early to predict the results of the seminars, it is hoped that they will eventually produce joint ventures between Israeli and Canadian companies, particularly in the fields of high tech and optics.

Two-way trade between Canada and Israel in 1991 was evenly balanced at approximately $130 million each way. Canada's main exports were crude and refined sulphur, aluminum, lumber, aircraft engines, and copper and zinc products. Israel's largest exports to Canada included diamonds, yarns, agricultural products and medical equipment.

The next Canada-Israel JEC is slated to take place in Israel in 1994.

Among those attending the signing were the Hon. Michael Wilson; Don Campbell, deputy minister for International Trade and associate under-secretary of State for External Affairs; His Excellency Norman Spector, ambassador of Canada to Israel; Dr. Maureen McIot, president of the Jewish Community Council; John Tavel, Q.C., general chairman UJA '92; and top officials from the Department of External Affairs and International Trade.

Israeli officials included Zvi Koren, director general in the Ministry of Trade and Commerce and top officials from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, among them Neville Lamdan, director of the North American Division; and Zvi Tenne, director of the Economic Division.

Sharing a moment together prior to the official signing at Kinneret, left to right, Zvi Koren, director general, Ministry of Industry and Trade, Israel; Don Campbell, deputy minister for International Trade and Associate Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, Canada; the Excellency Itzhak Shelef, ambassador of Israel to Canada; Hon. Michael H. Wilson, minister of Industry, Science & Technology, and Minister for International Trade.

Region's new anti-racism policy applauded by Jewish community

By Ruth Kahane
Community Relations Director
The Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton unanimously adopted an anti-racism policy for public use of its facilities on March 25.

"The Jewish Community Council of Ottawa applauds this step towards racial harmony by the Region," says Community Relations Chairperson Sunny Tavel. "This move narrows the possibility that publicly funded facilities will be used as a platform to promote racism."

The policy was brought forward by Councillor Mark Maloney, the prime mover in the formation of the Coalition for the Year of Racial Harmony in November 1990 which countered the appearance of Holocaust denier David Irving at the Ottawa Congress Centre.

The coalition, which included the Jewish Community Council, Canadian Jewish Congress, B'nai Brith Canada, local and national ethnocultural and race relations groups and other organizations, declared the Year of Racial Harmony for Ottawa at a rally at Regional-Municipal Headquarters the night that David Irving spoke at the Congress Centre.

Also a participant

At that time, the City of Ottawa, whose Advisory Council on Visible Minorities was also a participant in the racial harmony coalition, adopted a policy to stop city-operated facilities from being used by those promoting racism.

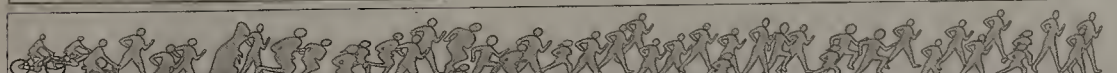

The region's recently adopted policy, will affect all regional facilities including Regional-Municipal Headquarters at 111 Lisgar Street.

In presenting the policy, Councillor Maloney said he does not think that there will be frequent need to use this policy, but that "it is important to have something on the books."

He told Regional Council that the human rights commissions across Canada have been dealing with major incidents involving anti-semitism and that Ottawa is also affected, as indicated by the B'nai Brith League for Human Rights audit of anti-semitic incidents.

The policy, based largely on the Canadian Human Rights Act, states that "public space, facilities and property within the jurisdiction of Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton will not be made available or accessible to any individual or group that espouses or promotes views and ideas which are likely to promote discrimination, contempt or hatred to any person on the basis of race, national or ethnic origin, color, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, sexual preference or disability."

This year's Walkathon...MARCH FOR FREEDOM - JUNE 14

Vaad Report

Dr. Maureen Molot, President
PRESIDENT, OTTAWA VAAD HAI
JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL

Ottawa Jewish Bulletin: The Bulletin is a major factor in the life of the Ottawa Jewish Community and one of the things that links this vibrant community together. It has won awards for excellence in competitions for papers in communities of like size. The costs of publishing the Bulletin are considerable and have, thus far, been borne by the community. Postage costs, in particular, have been rising, to the point where they are now double per issue what they were a couple of months ago. With the present number of issues published postage has risen from $20,000 to over $40,000 on an annual basis. In the current tight financial times we have to explore new ways to ensure that the Bulletin remains viable. In forthcoming issues of the Bulletin details of a proposed new subscription policy, intended to help defray some of the costs of the paper, will be announced.

Joint Economic Commission: From March 26 to April 1, 1992 members of the Canada-Israel Joint Economic Commission met to discuss ways of enhancing economic linkages between the two countries. A Memorandum of Understanding outlining future activities of the Joint Economic Commission was signed by Israeli Deputy Prime Minister and Industry and Trade Minister, Moshe Nissim, and Canadian Minister for International Trade, Michael Wilson. Fourteen Israeli business executives, representing eighteen different companies, spent a week meeting with their Canadian counterparts in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa. An Ottawa organization, the FOIL Group (which originated as Forging Ottawa-Israel Linkages), put together by Paul Bregman and others, played a significant part in the joint discussions.

Yom Hashoa: The community will mark Yom Hashoa on Wednesday, April 29, 1992. As the years pass it is even more critical that we recall that sad period in our history when Jewish community after Jewish community in Europe was destroyed and their residents sent to the camps. The commemoration will take place at the Jewish Community Cemetery on Bank Street at 7:30 p.m.

Yom Ha'atzmaut: Preparations for Ottawa's celebration of Israel's 44th Independence Day are well underway. The event will take place at Machzkei Hadas Synagogue on Virginia Drive on Wednesday evening May 6, 1992. Mark the date on your calendars now so that nothing will interfere with your participation in this important community event.

Walkathon: The Community Walkathon has been scheduled for Sunday, June 14, 1992. With a June date we can hope that the weather will be perfect for walking, jogging or cycling and that everyone in the community will be out. It is not too early for walkers, young and old, to begin compiling a list of those whom they will approach to sponsor them. It is critical that as many people as possible participate in the Walkathon, thereby helping to raise funds for needs in our local community and in Israel.

Israel and the Patriot Missiles: In 1991 the Patriot missile was in the news as the weapon used by Israel to knock out the Iraqi scuds aimed at its cities. In 1992 this same weapon was again a subject of media discussion, this time because Israel was alleged to have sold either a Patriot missile or Patriot missile technology to China. The US State Department mission sent to Israel to determine whether the allegations were true has reported that no evidence was found to support them. Ostensibly the issue is now closed. But Israel's supporters cannot help but wonder at both the timing and the tenor of the Patriot missile accusations. Leaving aside the complicated questions of technology sharing between countries who share considerable defence related research and development there is lingering suspicion of calculated leaks by those who would like to further weaken Israel's credibility.

Pesach: In a reference earlier in this column I spoke of the importance of remembering — in that instance with respect to the Holocaust. As we approach Pesach we think of a similar kind of recollection, in this case of the hardships endured by the Jewish people in Egypt and the Exodus as related by the Haggadah. This is a story familiar to us all and yet one which we delight in telling again. The name of the book we all know comes from le-haggid (to tell) which, in turn, refers to the biblical commandment found in the Book of Exodus (chapter 13; verse 8) "And you shall tell your child on that day that because of this (the observance of the mitzvot) that Hashem did these things for me when I came out of Egypt." The commentaries suggest that the use of the verb "to tell", as opposed to "to say", emphasizes the method in which the story is to be recounted. It is not sufficient merely to recite the story of the Exodus; rather it must be told in a manner geared to the level of those around the table so that the significance of the events will be understood. We are all supposed to feel as if we too experienced the Exodus. As we perform the various mitzvot of Pesach I hope that all of us will recall both the immediate and the larger meaning of this holiday. Hag someach!

"Why is this Passover different from all other Passovers?"

A message from John Tavel, Chairman 1992
United Jewish Appeal Campaign

With your help, 132,000 Jews from Eastern Europe and more than 19,000 Jews rescued from Ethiopia are celebrating their first Passover in Israel.

The 1992 Campaign, which commenced August 1991, was conducted in historic times — times which saw millions of Jews liberated, displaced, rescued and re-settled. Even though our job is far from finished, we have to take a great deal of pride in what has been accomplished to date.

The immensity of Operation Exodus can only be truly appreciated when one travels to Israel. The Israelis, who respond with a joke to every issue, have a joke for the great migration from the former Soviet Union "What is the second official language in Israel?" Answer: "Hebrew".

Even though this joke is an exaggeration, Russian is heard everywhere: from Jerusalem to Kfar Saba, from Ein Gedi to the Galilee. The nurseries, schools and universities are filled with the new arrivals.

The construction of new apartment buildings is evident everywhere. The great aliyah of the nineties has breathed enthusiasm and optimism into Israeli society.

All is not well, though. There are thousands of Olim who have not found jobs, or adjusted to the Israeli reality. We hope that economic and political reforms in Israel will help their absorption process along to a successful conclusion.

Operation Exodus is a miracle

come true for Israel and to waste this miracle would be unforgivable. We, the Jews in the diaspora, have to rededicate ourselves to providing Israel with the economic means to ensure that Operation Exodus will not only be the largest peacetime migration of Jews, but also the most successful.

The Jewish Community of Ottawa has responded to the challenge of the '92 Campaign with the generosity for which we have always been known. Overall, Campaign gifts are up by 6% (card for card), with some divisions registering exceptionally high increases: Legal Division has experienced a 15% increase, Public Service Division, 13% and Women's Division, 10%. We will report on other divisions as their results come in.

Operationally, we continue to assure that local beneficiaries and institutions in Israel derive the greatest benefit from Ottawa's generosity. Recognizing our community's commitment to raising UJA funds, we are sensitive to the fact that money spent "to get the message across" must be spent wisely.

Our administrative expenses have come in at 20% less than the 1990 Campaign and 15% less than 1991. Despite this reduction in expenses, we continue to dramatically improve our operating efficiency. We are simply working a little harder and are exercising fiscal responsibility at all times.

The Campaign is not over yet — the miracle of Passover doesn't end with the fourth cup of wine. Your generous contribution to UJA is needed now more than ever — to provide much more than matzah for the new immigrants already in Israel and to speed the exodus of hundreds of thousands more. Your gift makes the difference!

If you haven't made your pledge to this year's Campaign, I urge you to do so soon. So much is at stake. So many people depend on you.

Where is it written that one Jew must help another?

— In every Jewish heart.
Happy Passover.

Has it gotten smaller, the table we've been setting for Pesach for up teen years?

Gleaming white cloth over all, cup for Eliyahu positioned dead centre.

Seder plate duly appointed and waiting before the host's pillow-chair; the three participatory matzo's securely nestled in their specially divided holder.

Silver goblets placed at individual settings, each teetering precariously on the tiny saucers necessary for catching the ceremonial drops of wine soon to come.

The table hasn't gotten smaller. Tables don't.

The group has gotten larger.

Little bodies that used to cluster around the seder table have grown into adulthood. And some of them have already taken mates and produced little spinoff bodies, all of whom, happily, must be counted in and accommodated at the annual Pesach ritual and feast.

Little voices that used to ask the Four Questions have long since deepened and matured and this year are coaching other little voices strongly reminiscent of their own in the recitation of the familiar quartet of queries.

And, as the scene unfolds, we are suddenly, sharply reminded of the circle that is life.

For it is at Pesach most of all, when buds begin to show on the trees and grass starts to turn green, when the tulips and daffodils planted last fall sprout and raise their golden, colorful heads, that the cyclical nature of all things becomes most apparent.

It is at our seder table, after the long, cold winter, that we marvel at how the children have grown as we pass the story of the Exodus on to the next generation, and glory in the handing on of that precious mantle through the recitation of 'ma nishkana...' and remember when that duty fell to us, now to ours.

The table we've been setting for years with gleaming white cloth over all, cup for Eliyahu dead centre... seder plate duly appointed and waiting... silver goblets teetering on tiny saucers... hasn't gotten smaller at all.

The happy group encircling its perimeter has gotten larger. Which is the natural cycle of things — and as it should be! To you and yours a happy, healthy and kosher Pesach 5752.

Ceremonies in Netanya

Inducting Jewish sports greats into Hall of Fame

TEL AVIV (JTA) — Fifteen all-time greats of the sports world — 12 of them Americans — will be inducted into the International Jewish Sports Hall of Fame this summer, Alan Sherman, Hall of Fame chairman, announced here.

The ceremonies will be held at the Sports Hall Museum on the campus of Wingate Institute in Netanya, north of Tel Aviv.

The honorees this year include Abie Grossfeld, who coached the U.S. Men's Olympic Gymnastics

Team in 1972, 1984 and 1988; Ray Arcel, a trainer of 22 world boxing champions, including Georges Carpentier, Gene Tunney, Barney Ross, Ezzard Charles and, most recently, Roberto Duran; and Eric Seelig, who in 1933 was middleweight and light heavyweight champion of Germany, only to have his career ended abruptly when the Nazis came to power. Germany has yet to restore his titles to the official records.

American inductees include boxer Lew Tendler, who won 156 of 167 bouts, though never a title; professional bowling champion Mark Roth; and Harry Newman, University of Michigan all-star quarterback in 1930-32 who, in 1933, as a pro, led the New York Giants to their first NFL championship.

Charles "Buddy" Myer holds a 17-year lifetime Major League batting average of .303 with the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators, now the Texas Rangers. He won the American League batting crown in 1935 with a .349 average.

Others elected include tennis champion Herb Flam, National Hockey League coaching icon Cecil Hart and Bela Komjadi, inspirational coach of the Hungarian Olympic water polo team.

The Hall of Fame will convey its Lifetime Achievement Award to Florida Professional Golf Association teaching professional Sam Sharrow for his many contributions to the development of youth sports and the development of golf in Israel.

The Sports Hall of Fame Pillar of Achievement added five to its roster, including Shirley Povich, Washington Post sports reporter-columnist for 62 years, and Barney Nagler, who began his "On Second Thought" column for the New York Morning Telegram in 1950 and penned his last column for The Daily Racing Form in October 1990, before he died.

To date, 190 athletes, coaches and sports persons have been elected to the Hall of Fame, representing 17 countries. Elections are held annually.

Questioning the Questions

By Rabbi Howard M. Finkelstein

Beth Shalom West

Were one to carefully examine the premise of the first question of Mah Nishtanah, one would really have to ask: Why are these questions different from all other questions?

Though the questions of Mah Nishtanah known to most Jewish children deal with the unique aspects of Passover, one must wonder if there are not stranger elements in Judaism that we should be questioning?

For example: Why do Jews live in their homes all year, but for eight days during the holiday of Succot move into temporary huts?

Rabbi Shlomo Riskin in his Passover Haggadah commentary writes that for a Jew to be forced out of the comfort of his home into a temporary Succah is not an unusual aspect of Jewish history. Jews for years have never felt truly safe and comfortable in the Diaspora, and have in many instances lived in fear, not knowing what the next day will bring. The roof over his head is not solid, the walls surrounding him and his family can collapse. In other words, his safety and security rest on shaky ground, indeed. That is not unusual.

What is unusual is that on Passover the Jew, knowing fully well those terrible lessons of Jewish history, nevertheless celebrates the Passover holiday in an opulent if not ostentatious way. He knows that G-d watches over him on the nights of the Seder, and, therefore, he can well afford to drink his wine and eat his Matza in a reclining position to demonstrate his freedom and trust in G-d. Passover is a holiday of redemption, of optimism, of promise.

Knowing all of this, the Haggadah opens with these questions of Mah Nishtanah, reinterpreted as: Why is the Jew so confident of his security tonight? Why is the night of Passover the night of protection? The Jew recognizes the wonders of G-d's work these past few years: the collapse of the USSR, the return and repatriation of Soviet and Ethiopian Jews to Israel. He is therefore confident that the final redemption of the Jewish people lies just around the corner.

May this be the year that Elijah the prophet brings us the good tidings of the coming of Messiah ben David when he comes to our door on the nights of the Seder. This year in Jerusalem.

Where to get the 'right stuff' for Pesach '91

be extra careful in ascertaining the ritual fitness or kashrus of particular food and personal use of items.

To ease the process, this column provides a digest of what to look for and where to find it.

Good selections of Pesach foods and related products are available at Capital Rideau and Greenbank IGAs and various Loblaw's supermarkets, United Kosher Meat and Deli and Rideau Bakery. Smaller displays are usually featured at a number of other supermarkets in town carrying year-round stocks of kosher foods.

Watch for special displays of packaged and canned Passover foods which carry Kosher for Passover labels. It is important to ensure that such labels are duly endorsed by recognized rabbinic authorities under the auspices of the MK, COR, U-O, Israeli Rabbinate or other qualified certifying authorities. Consult your rabbi concerning any question on the reliability of any kashruth endorsement.

In Ottawa, the following products will be under the Kosher for Passover certification of the Ottawa Vaad Hakashruth using the V-H symbol.

Dairy - Homogenized and 2% partly skimmed milk will be available a few days before Pesach from Sealtest Dairies.

Fish - Fish will be available from Blue Heron Fishery, Carling at Richmond.

Catered Foods - Jack Smith Kosher Catering, Jack Edelson Catering and United Kosher Meat and Deli are offering a full line of cooked and take-out foods for sale.

Chometz

Chometz foods cannot be eaten during Pesach and must either be destroyed or sold through your rabbi. All grain products including bread, cereals, white vinegar, whiskey and all derivatives or admixtures of grain are chometz. Legumes (beans and peas), rice, corn and derivatives of these foods are also considered chometz.

Special note: "Play-doh" is chometz.

Most commercial pet food contains wheat, barley, starch, etc. and may not be used. Non-chometz substitutes are the answer. Baby foods may pose a similar problem and rabbinic advice is recommended.

Many types of vitamin preparations, pain relievers, artificial sweeteners, capsules, syrups and tablets for colds and other drugs are free of chometz and are usable.

Consult your rabbi or synagogue bulletin for a current approved listing.

Cosmetic lotions, creams and ointments need no special preparation; however, it is preferable to purchase Passover approved products for oral hygiene or for application to the lips. Perfumes containing denatured alcohol are to be treated as chometz.

Dried fruits should only be purchased if they bear Kosher for Passover certification.

Most synagogues will be providing detailed information on the procedures for kashering homes for Pesach and on the laws governing the disposal of chometz, the conduct of the seder, and the use of Pesach utensils and kitchenware.

Matzoh

For the Pesach seder, the mitzvah of eating matzoh is correctly fulfilled by purchasing shemura matzoh whose ingredients have been under constant supervision. Matzoh used for the remainder of the holiday should preferably be of the regular, variety since matzoh made with fruit juice, eggs, or chocolate does not qualify as "lechem oni" or "bread of affliction". Please consult your rabbi if, for any reason, the eating of regular matzohs poses a problem.

Wine

A large variety of wines and grape juices are available which are certified Kosher for Pesach. The latter are available wherever Pesach food products are sold while the former can be obtained at Ontario Liquor Control outlets, kosher caterers and the Quebec Liquor Control Board, Place du Centre, Hull.

Final Note

Buying chometz after Pesach: Chometz which was in the possession of a Jewish store on Pesach and not sold through a rabbinic agent may not be used after the Yom Tov.

Even without the use of flour in Passover baking there's no reason why we can't prepare delicious desserts! Here are a few terrific chocolate ones to try, as well as an unusual fruit salad; wonderful compliments to any Passover meal!

Brownies

|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 4 oz. unsweetened chocolate | 1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts |
| 1/2 cup unsalted butter | 2 oz. semi-sweet chocolate |
| 1-1/2 cups superfine sugar (see note) | |
| 4 eggs, separated | 30 walnut halves |

Melt the chocolate and cool. Preheat oven to 400°. Butter a jelly roll pan. Line with parchment and butter again. Cream butter until light. Gradually beat in sugar. Add melted chocolate and beat. Then add egg yolks. Beat to combine. In a separate bowl, with clean beaters, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into chocolate mixture. Fold in the chopped walnuts. Reserve 3/4 cup of the batter and refrigerate. Spread the remaining mixture evenly over prepared pan and bake 10-12 minutes, until the top is firm but not dry. Cool. Unmold. Trim the edges and cut the cake in half. Gently remove from parchment. Spread half the cake with the chilled mixture. Top with the other baked half. Cut into 30 squares. To garnish, melt the 2 oz. chocolate and spread a touch on each square. Top with a walnut half. Refrigerate.

ISRAEL

North American aliyah on upswing

Aliyah from CIS up slightly, but behind last year

By Michele Chabin

JERUSALEM, (JTA) — Immigration to Israel rose by nearly a quarter in March, but the level is still far below last year's total for the month.

Lowest monthly total

The number of olim from the former Soviet republics rose 16 percent in March, but was still the second lowest monthly total since January 1990.

Aliyah from North America, on the other hand, was well ahead of the level at this time last year.

According to the Jewish Agency, 6,274 immigrants arrived in Israel last month, including 4,913 from the former Soviet Union. This is a 23.6 percent increase over February, when 5,077 people immigrated, including 4,233 from the former Soviet republics.

Last month's aliyah figures are down more than 50 percent from March 1991, when 14,609 people immigrated. For Jews from the Soviet successor states, the drop is even greater: from 13,336 in March 1991 to just 4,913 last month.

Curve bottom reached

Aliyah from the republics has been dropping more or less steadily since last June, when over 20,000 Jews immigrated. The March figures are the first indication that the bottom of the curve has been reached.

In New York, the Hebrew

Immigrant Aid Society reported that 3,498 Jews from the former Soviet Union came to the United States in March under the government's refugee program. This brings the total for the first half of the 1992 fiscal year to 23,173, well ahead of the 9,059 who came during the same period last year.

25 per cent increase

Whereas aliyah from the former Soviet republics seems to have hit a plateau, immigration to Israel from the United States and Canada is definitely on the upswing. The first three months of 1992 have witnessed a 25 percent increase in North American aliyah over the same period last year.

Still extremely small

While aliyah officials say the increase is significant, they point out that the number of North American olim is still extremely small. In 1990, 1,924 North Americans moved to Israel, while 1,962 did so in 1991. Approximately 300 have come since the beginning of this year.

Jewish Agency spokesman Gad Ben-Ari attributes the rise to several factors. First, he said, "the agency's North American office has made a tremendous effort to encourage aliyah over there. We feel that the time is right, that people are ready to try Israel."

The sluggish American economy is another contributing factor. "The recession in the U.S. has certainly had an effect," he said. "The American standard of living isn't what it used to be."

Perhaps most important, said the spokesman, is the "aliyah fever" that has swept Jewish communities around the world. "When Diaspora Jews see the great inpouring of Jews from the former Soviet Union and Ethiopia, they are caught up in the wave, too," he said.

"We would like to see people come to Israel not out of a sense of desperation but because things are so attractive here. That is what we are working toward."

Wait-and-see attitude

As for the future of immigration from the former Soviet republics, Ben-Ari adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

"The high unemployment rate among olim," he said, "will keep potential olim away."

The jobless rate among new immigrants is now more than triple the national average, according to figures released Tuesday by the Central Bureau of Statistics.

Unemployment among immigrants has reached 36 percent, compared to 11 percent unemployment nationwide.

Seeking employment

Of the 260,000 immigrants of working age who arrived in Israel since 1990, 48,000 have no jobs and are actively seeking employment, the Central Bureau reported.

Although the immigrants represent only 6 percent of Israel's work force, they account for 24 percent of its unemployed, up from 15 percent in the first quarter of 1991.

"This kind of information has a drastic effect on peoples' decision on whether or not to leave," said Ben-Ari. "People are sitting on their suitcases, emotionally ready to leave, waiting for a positive signal from Israel, primarily regarding employment."

Until that happens, he said, "many potential immigrants will stay where they are."

Ottawans join the International March of the Living

Two years ago, nineteen teenagers from the Ottawa area went on a trip that changed their lives forever. Their names are Jeff Cherun, Jessica Cohen, Michal Cracower, Eliyana Delicate, Eileen Glenns, Julia Goldberg, Lee Greenberg, Rochelle Ironstone, Dafna Jalon, Nisa Krongold-Schechtman, David Lander, Esther Lederman, David Lisbona, David Mayman, Mitch Miller, Sherry Miller, Samantha Lomow, Shelley Samel, and Derek Steingarten. The chaperons who guided them through this experience were Marlene Cherun, Assistant Director of Jewish Family Services and Neil Silvert. And the trip they went on was the "March of the Living".

When the group left Ottawa, they met up with approximately 300 Jewish students from all across Canada. Together, they joined teenagers from Israel, North America, Europe, South Africa, South America and Australia for this once in a lifetime experience. This experience was divided into two portions: Poland and Israel, or Darkness and Light.

When they returned, these students became ambassadors to their communities, taking the message of what they saw wherever it was required. They spoke in schools, in summer camps, at dinners — wherever they were needed — and they would come on a moment's notice. They shared their experience and their heightened awareness with others in an effort to promote tolerance, understanding and acceptance, and to remind us that we must guard the freedom of all.

This spring, ten Ottawa and four Montreal students will leave from Ottawa to participate in the 1992 "March of the Living". They are: Stephane Acel, Stephen Birnbaum, Melissa Borovay, Ari Cherun, Benjamin Gonshor, Jonathan Kalles, Matthew Lederman, Ellen Miller, Laurie May Schildkraut, Debbie Stone, Jason Shinder, Jessica Strauss, Joanne Tannenbaum, and Melissa Tabacman. The chaperons are again Marlene Cherun and Dr. Rena Borovay and Barbara Blevis, Campaign Associate for United Jewish Appeal.

What is the "March of the Living" and why is it unlike any other trip? The groundwork for the March began months ago. After an application and interview process, there were extensive preparatory sessions. The participants began by attending educational lectures on such topics as Jewish life in pre-war Europe; anti-Semitism and anti-Jewish legislation leading up to World War II; Canada's role vis a vis the Jews before, during and after the war; life in the ghetto; righteous gentiles; in the footsteps of the survivor; the response of the Diaspora; and the many faces of Israel. In addition, the participants saw the movie "Korczak", read countless articles and books, and participated in a weekend shabbaton. Their commitment further extends to missing two weeks of school, with all the extra work implied in catching up. Clearly, these are unusually committed young people.

On April 27, the group will leave

Canada for Poland. In Poland, the program includes visits to the concentration camps of Auschwitz-Birkenau, Majdanek, and Treblinka. Other historical Jewish sites will be visited including the Warsaw Ghetto Memorial, Mila 18, the Jewish Cemetery in Warsaw, the Jewish Quarter in Cracow, the Ramah Synagogue, and the famous yeshiva in Lublin (which now houses a medical school). A very strong effort will be made throughout the trip to bring alive, for the participants, the very rich and vibrant community which existed in Europe prior to World War II and to cherish its memory.

The trip to Poland will culminate in the "March of the Living" which will take place on Yom Hashoah. The Marchers will retrace in reverse the "March of Death" which countless numbers of our people were forced to undertake on their way to the gas chambers at Auschwitz-Birkenau. However, this March will be different, for it is the "March of the Living" with thousands of Jewish youths making the affirmation: "Am Yisrael Chai".

It is important for the group to remember as they stand at some of the sites of the blackest moments in modern history that this trip is much more than a lesson in history, and that they are not to dwell on the darkness and hate. This trip is to remind them to cherish what they have: their rich Jewish heritage, the rights and responsibilities of freedom, human rights, and the State of Israel, which ensures each of us a security unknown before its founding.

From Poland the group will proceed to Israel where the students will visit a number of significant locations in both ancient and modern history. These will include Jerusalem, Masada, the Sea of Galilee, the Negev, and others. They will witness the miracle of Operation Exodus by greeting Eastern European Olim arriving in Israel and will meet them as they participate in the absorption process on Kibbutz Gezer.

They will experience the hospitality of Israeli families when they visit the Project Renewal neighbourhood, Neot Herzl, which is twinned with the Ottawa Jewish community. The group will share ideas with Israeli teenagers such subjects as the effects of conflict on Israeli society and of the legacy of the Holocaust for Israeli youths, among many others. They will honour Israel's fallen by commemorating Yom HaZicharon on the Burma Road.

The highlight of the Israeli experience will be the celebration of Yom Ha'atzmaut, the Israeli Independence Day, at the Kotel. By celebrating the creation of the State of Israel along with thousands of youths from around the world, the group will share an unforgettable moment in history and bear witness to the undying spirit of the Jewish people. Israel exists so that we can say, "Never Again".

When this group returns from the "March of the Living" they, too, will be changed. We look forward to their safe return, to the stories they will tell, to the poems they will write, to the experiences they will share. We also look forward to their invaluable involvement in and connection with the Jewish and wider community of Ottawa, that develops as a logical extension of their participation in the March of the Living. We wish them well and thank them for their commitment to our future and to the promotion and protection of human rights.

An Open Letter to March of the Living Participants to the Holocaust sites.

Congratulations, I heard you are joining the March of the Living pilgrimage to the Holocaust sites.

I was once in Warsaw on a business trip but didn't visit Auschwitz because I couldn't figure out the purpose in it; now that I have figured it out, I have no opportunity to do so. So, I'll convey my simple thoughts to you, and if they sound right to you, why not adapt them as your own.

In spite of the fact that Kaddish is recited by grief-stricken families of cemeteries, it is not exactly a prayer for the dead but rather a prayer to sanctify God and life — remember that when you participate in memorial assemblies on your trip where Kaddish will be recited — Perhaps this is a clue to the purpose of your trip; not to seek revenge, not to open wounds, not to obtain justice or redress, not to see things first hand, nor to come back grounds. I think that you can even do more — you can help bury the past, with greater wisdom about that terrible past, but, to help sanctify the not by manifesting for splendidly appropriate monuments, nor museums, or praying places, for I can think of no such structure to symbolize the gaping nothingness, the inhumanity.

You can carry with you a fist-size stone from Canada, to deposit somewhere on the grounds, at Auschwitz, as is the custom for Jewish families when visiting cemeteries, to symbolize that you were there, that you are linked. It will both sanctify the grounds and bury the past. And if others copy your simple act, and others yet in the following years, the act so multiplied will create its own monument. No need for architects; no splendid headstones, no authorizations, no Polish government blessing. Yet in time, in one hundred years, maybe one thousand, the mound of stones will grow in size and meaning more than any official monument, or any museum and not to forget its practical aspects; anyone can participate, both Jews and Gentiles, and it leaves nothing for bureaucracies or vandals to tear down. Remember, also, that when you are done; when you have sanctified the grounds and buried that past, and have returned, you will have your own life to live.

With my blessings,
Nestor Hobe

Nestor Hobe was a Hidden Child in Belgium during WWII. Presently, he resides in Ottawa.

The March of the Living participants and chaperons would like to thank the following people:

Admires Ariel Sharon

Little known about Ross Perot's stance on Israel

By David Friedman

WASHINGTON, (JTA) — H. Ross Perot, the Texas billionaire who is considering running as a third-party candidate for president, is an unknown quantity when it comes to Israel.

Some Dallas Jews say they believe Perot is a strong supporter of Israel, although there is little evidence from his speeches. When asked about the loan guarantee issue on a television show recently, he said he had not studied the issue.

Friend and benefactor

For several years, Perot has been a friend and benefactor of Shaare Zedek Hospital in Jerusalem and is known to be an admirer of Ariel Sharon, Israel's hard-line minister of housing.

Perot has visited Israel, and "I know that he admires Sharon," said Morris Talansky, executive vice chairman of the American Committee for Shaare Zedek Hospital. "He admires the Jewish people, and he certainly admires Israel and is a very warm friend of the hospital."

Dallas Jews point to Perot's close relationship with a Jew, his longtime right-hand man Mort Myerson. When Dallas built a new cultural hall, Perot contributed the largest single gift for the center on condition it be named for Myerson.

Cannot afford hatred

During a recent appearance on public television's "MacNeil / Lehrer Newshour," Perot said the United States cannot afford hatred and bigotry as it seeks to restore its economic leadership.

There is "only so much energy in this country, and if we waste it hating one another, we are going to lose," he said.

He said there are three categories in which he would put most people on this issue. "We ought to love one another — that takes care of most of us," Perot said.

"For those who can't quite reach that, let's get along with one another, so we can team up and win," he said.

"Now for the hard-core haters," he continued, "my advice to you is we are stuck with one another. Nobody is leaving.

Nobody is going back home. We are all here. So get at least up in category 2."

Perot's possible candidacy came about during an appearance on Cable News Network's "Larry King Show," when he said he would consider running if he received the 800,000 signatures needed to get on the ballot in all 50 states.

Offers of support

Since then, hundreds of thousands of people have been calling his headquarters in Dallas to offer support. He said he would be willing to spend $100 million of his own funds to finance the race.

Perot's political outlook is difficult to assess. He said he wants to ban deficit spending by the government, overhaul the tax system, and make Europe and Japan pay for their defense. But he is less clear on other issues.

Perot has used his own people and funds to rescue two of his employees held in Iran and to search for U.S. soldiers missing in Southeast Asia. He was against the Persian Gulf War, but helped veterans of the war, as he has after other wars.

Pundits are divided over whether he would take away more votes from President Bush or the Democratic nominee. But being a folk hero in Texas, Perot could win that important state, which would hurt the prospects of one of the state's other prominent naive sons, George Bush.

Canada

The Proposed Child Benefit

► The proposed Child Benefit will, if passed by Parliament, go out to over 3 million Canadian families starting in January 1993.

► The proposed Child Benefit will replace today's patchwork of measures — Family Allowances, Child Tax Credit and Dependent Child Credit — with one monthly payment.

► The proposed Child Benefit will go to those families with children who need it — those with low and modest incomes. What's more, it is based on family income, which is a fairer way of determining the amount of assistance that children actually need. The proposed Child Benefit will include an earned-income supplement to increase support for low-income working families.

► The proposed Child Benefit will increase federal support for children by $2.1 billion over 5 years. For example, a family with one child, earning $20,000, can receive as much as $1,733 per year — an increase of 40%.

What's more, it would be tax-free — you wouldn't be taxed on the proposed Child Benefit!

► Once fully in place, the proposed monthly Child Benefit will respond to changing family circumstances, such as the birth of a child.

► The proposed Child Benefit will automatically be sent to you each month. If you file a tax return, there's no need to apply unless you have a change in family circumstances. At tax time, as well, you would find your tax return easier to prepare.

1992 UJA Campaign Benefits

Public Service Division raises record amount

Co-Chairs of the Public Service Division Victor Rabinovitch and Allan Cracower are pleased to report that $225,000 had been raised by the Public Service Division. This is the highest Regular Campaign total ever, and a 13% increase over last year.

Of the 788 contributors who were canvassed, 216 increased their gift - some doubling or tripling their previous donations. Only 63 reduced their pledges - remarkable considering that most salaries in the Public Service were frozen.

Less than 1% was spent on administering the 1992 Public Service Division Campaign. This extremely low operating cost was achieved despite the fact that the Division enjoyed some of its most successful programming ever.

The Public Service Division opening luncheon featured Baruch Gur, Head of the Soviet and Eastern Europe Department of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem. Gur updated the Division on Jewish Agency activities in the Eastern Europe.

The concert and exclusive Public Service Division reception with Pinchas Zukerman at the National Arts Centre in November was a complete triumph. Rarely have so many compliments been heard about a Campaign event!

The Division held its closing luncheon on March 12 at the Minto Place Hotel in Ottawa. The special guest was Levi Shaffran, a retired Israeli Air Force pilot who flew in the Operation Shlomo rescue of Ethiopian Jews.

Shaffran gave his personal account of the dramatic 36-hour airlift of over 14,500 Jews from Addis Ababa to Israel. He captivated the group with his account of the political complications and the almost-inconceivable logistics of the operation.

This year's Public Service Campaign owes much of its success to the wide-spread participation of canvassers. Nearly every department was represented on the Campaign Cabinet team. Many newcomers became involved in the Campaign and benefited from the experience of veteran Public Service Division canvassers.

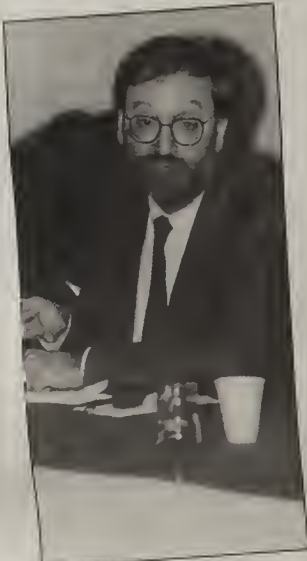

The Co-Chairs, Victor Rabinovitch and Allan Cracower, kept in direct contact with the canvassers. Personal outreach and informative mailings kept every member of the team up-to-date on the progress of the Campaign and other pertinent Campaign information.

Special thanks to Henry Molot who served as a Special Groups Chairperson on the General Campaign Cabinet. With his energy and resourcefulness, he assisted the Public Service Division Co-Chairs with the effective distribution and successful completion of many cards.

Appreciation is also due Dr. Charles Freedman who was most helpful in overseeing a group of divisional chairmen and in key-card coverage.

The underlying message of the 1992 Campaign was 'Proud to be Jewish and to be a Public Servant'. The feeling among Public Service canvassers is that they constitute an integral part of the Jewish Community of Ottawa with which they have pulled together in solidarity in these difficult and demanding times.

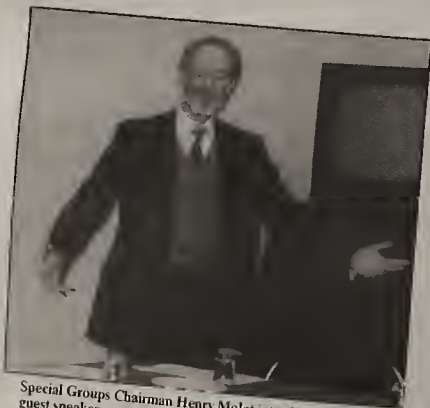

The Public Service Division is looking forward to a very successful 1993 Campaign.

Public Service Division Co-Chairman Victor Rabinovitch discusses 1992 Campaign results.

Guest speaker Levi Shaffran recounts Operation Shlomo experiences.

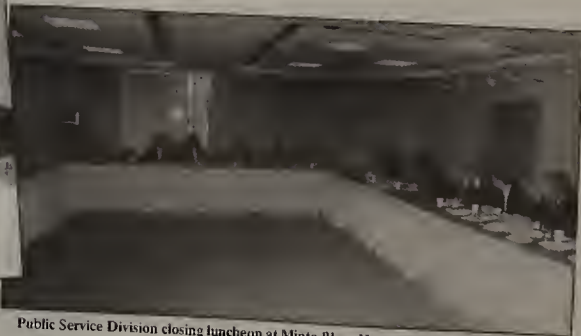

Special Groups Chairman Henry Molot introduces guest speaker.

Public Service Division Chairman Allan Cracower thanks guest speaker Levi Shaffran.

ORGANIZATIONS AND PEOPLE

Mirsky Dinner funds build JNF reservoir

Six hundred and fifty Canadians toured Israel recently on the 90th anniversary mission sponsored by the Jewish National Fund. Among the many sites visited was the Reshafim Water Reservoir, built by JNF, in part with funds raised on the occasion of the Negev Dinner honouring Mervin Mirsky.

The Reservoir covers 300 dunams (75 acres) and its holding capacity is between 2.5 and 2.8 million cubic meters, allowing for an average outflow of 500-600 cubic meters of water per hour. The reservoir is a prime example of Israel's ingenuity in providing a solution to a complex combination of problems in the area because:

- winter rain waters from the steep mountainous slopes in the region would either cause flooding in and damage to the agricultural fields of the Beit Shean valley and would flow waste into the Jordan River.
- spring waters of Ein Moodah, the target water well in the region were uncontrolled, requiring catchment for organized use.

- The reservoir would allow for successful water conservation as well as a widened economic base for the settlement by exploiting the swift flowing stream for the commercial breeding of fish (carp) in its sweet waters.

This reservoir fulfils important objectives which include water catchment and storage for use during summer months, the irrigation of some 2000 dunams (500 acres) of agricultural fields (cotton, corn, olive trees etc., commercial fish breeding pond for economic advantage and it reduces the need for irrigation with Lake Kinneret's waters, allowing for usage of the latter as drinking water.

The Reshafim reservoir is truly a "Water-For-Life" project and it significantly contributes towards alleviating current and long range problems while at the same time it improves the ecological and environmental quality of life in Israel.

Massad Manitoba will hold Aug. camp reunion

To celebrate its 40th summer of camping, Camp Massad (Manitoba) will be holding a reunion for all camp alumni from August 21-23, 1992. Former counselors, campers and friends of the camp are invited to enjoy a weekend of camp spirit, reminiscing and nostalgia.

The reunion weekend will begin Friday, August 21 at 5:00 p.m. Alumni will be placed in cabins - boys on one side of the camp, girls on the other. The first evening will be a traditional Massad Shabbat, culminating in 'Rikud Am' - Israeli circle dancing.

Saturday will feature Shabbat prayers led by an alumni choir. Following a full day of special programming, the evening will include 'Rikud Zar' - modern dancing - and last-night-of-camp rituals.

After a final brunch on Sunday, alumni will clean out their cabins and say "lilutra'ot" to Camp Massad.

Arrangements can be made for those alumni not wishing to stay at the camp itself, and for those wishing to attend only part of the reunion. The registration fee of $65 will cover all costs for the weekend. A special, limited-edition reunion sweatshirt will be available at cost.

Alumni are urged to contact the Camp Massad office at (204) 943-2815 for registration forms or information. The registration deadline is May 8/92. Out of town alumni may write to: Camp Massad, 25-370 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg MB, R3B 2K1.

Volunteers are also needed for several reunion committees.

Israeli superhighway to be named for Menachem Begin

JERUSALEM, (JTA) — Israel's newest superhighway will be named in memory of the late Prime Minister Menachem Begin. Tel Aviv's recently completed Ayalon route, which bisects the city from north to south, will bear the name of the Israeli leader who died in Tel Aviv on March 9 at the age of 78.

The four-to-six-lane highway has become Tel Aviv's major traffic artery. A suburban commuter railroad is being built to run alongside it.

WWII veteran sharing personal story of heroism Sunday, May 17

By Herman S. Roodman
Victory was not won easily for the Allies in World War II. By the Spring of 1942, the third year of the Second World War, the flood of enemy victories had reached very high proportions. Allied successes could be counted on the fingers of a man who had no hands. What secret did Jack Nissenthall know so vital to the Allies that he travelled with a personal bodyguard of ten sharpshooters? Would you believe that their orders were to kill Jack rather than let him be captured?

Known also as Jack Nissen, he had volunteered and was selected for a very special assignment: to discover the importance and accuracy of a German radar station on the cliff-top just outside the town of Pourville.

Jack Nissenthall will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the Second Annual Banquet of the Jewish War Veterans of Canada, Capital Post, which will be held in the auditorium of Agudath Israel Synagogue on May 17. Veterans of the Ottawa Post, together with their families and friends, will hear Mr. Nissenthall's personal story of heroism and ironic humour. The Ottawa Jewish Community will have the rare opportunity to hear Jack's determination to pay a debt of honor to the country which had given his parents a home.

The occasion will be graced by the presence of Senator Jack Marshall, National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans of Canada, and by other local and national dignitaries. Senator Marshall will be the installing officer. The event will be chaired by Mrs. Inge Hoffman, a veteran of the British Army. Nat Levitin, D.F.C. is the Capital Post Commander.

The fascinating story of Jack Maurice Nissenthall's miraculous secret is contained in a poignant book called Green Beach written by the famous British author, James Leasor. What and where was Green Beach? Why did one man land there in Canadian Army uniform when he was neither a Canadian nor a soldier, under security conditions so strict that no one was told his name?

But today it can be told that the man in Canadian uniform was a British radar expert by the name of Jack Nissenthall, an R A F flight sergeant from Bow, in East London. "Green Beach" was the code name for Pourville, a small seaside town near Dieppe where, in August of 1942, Canadian and British troops landed in Operation Jubilee, an essential rehearsal for the D-Day landings two years later.

Composed of six thousand strong, Jubilee Force had been set 16 precise objectives. What happened to Jack Nissenthall and his bodyguard in Jubilee's frightening nine hours of fighting on the sun-burned beaches is one of the war's strangest episodes.

The cost of tickets for veterans is $30 per person, and for non-veterans, $35 per person.

Further information may be had by telephoning Adjutant Herman Roodman at 733-8383.

The zmirot were loud and lusty.

Shabbat presented by star of David pupils

The table for Shabbat was covered with a white tablecloth, colourful candleholders made by the students, grapejuice and challah. This was the setting for the Star of David Hebrew School's Kindergarten and Grade One students to celebrate Shabbat together.

The program commenced with the singing of the Kiddush over the wine, brocha over the candles and the motzi over the challah. Zmirot-Shabbat songs - were sung with enthusiasm! The highlight of the program was the eating of the delicious challah; as one student remarked - "you know why it's so good - because my Zaidie made it!"

Special programs such as these are an integral part of the Star of David Hebrew curriculum, as it enhances the learning of laws and customs.

Star of David Hebrew School has been in existence for 16 years and draws students from areas such as Alta Vista, Hunt Club, the West End, Rockcliffe, Orleans, Manor Park. Star of David has been successful in its teaching as it has developed a system of learning whereby individual attention is given at each student's level of understanding.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Principal Hennie Horngman at 731-3828.

U of Ottawa/Hebrew U exchange becomes reality

Karen Totland is the first scholar to reap the benefit of the academic exchange agreement established between the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and the University of Ottawa.

Signed in the Lawrence Freiman Hall of the University of Ottawa in late 1990 by Hebrew University Rector Yoram Ben-Porath and Marcel Hamelin, Rector of the University of Ottawa, the agreement provides the basis for co-operation at the faculty and post-graduate level. It is designed to allow scholars from one university to teach and carry out research at the other university for a pre-determined period of time.

Three months

Beginning June 1, Ms. Totland who is in the 4th year of her Ph.D program in Organometallic Chemistry at the University of Ottawa, will spend three months in Israel working with Dr. Jochanan Blum, professor of chemistry at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. While on the exchange she will be taking part in a collaborative study on reduction and/or reductive carbonylation. The goal of this work is the catalytic preparation of special chemicals which are key in both pharmaceutical and petrochemical industries.

Shortly after the formal signing of the academic agreement, the Zelikovitz brothers, Max and the late David, established the Zelikovitz Family Scholarship Program for the Hebrew University at the University of Ottawa. The scholarship is now one of the permanent endowed academic funds at the University of Ottawa, thus ensuring the continuity of the program on an annual basis.

Presented at luncheon

The award was presented to Ms. Totland at a luncheon in Ottawa on Wednesday, March 25, at the home of Evelyn and Irving Greenberg. Among the guests were Ambassador of Israel to Canada Itzhak Shelef; Minister Counsellor Yaacov Paran; Dr. Marcel Hamelin, Rector of the University of Ottawa; Vice-Rectors Jean-Michel Beillard and Bernard Philogene; Ottawa Mayor Jacquelin Holzman; Stephen Victor and Dr. Howard Alper, members of the Selection Committee; and Carolyn Steinman, representing the Canadian Friends of Hebrew University. A warm welcome was accorded members of the Zelikovitz family, Max Zelikovitz, Sue Green and Marlene Burack.

In the absence of Dorothy Nadohny, chairman of the Ottawa Chapter of Friends of Hebrew University, the guests were welcomed by Evelyn Greenberg who chose the phrase "where there's a will there's a way" to illustrate how the exchange became a reality. She praised the Administrations of the

University of Ottawa and the Hebrew University as well as the Embassy of Israel for their goodwill and energy necessary to provide the permanent link between these two important academic institutions in Canada and Israel.

Dr. Hamelin remarked that agreements often remain on paper but this one had become tangible and permanent through the generosity of the Zelikovitz family who were the first to extend funding to this project.

Ambassador Shelef, a graduate of Hebrew University, praised the institution's Chemistry Department in which Karen will join in a collaborative research project. He remarked, with a smile, that being in Israel at the time of the election would add another very interesting dimension to Karen's education.

On behalf of the Canadian Friends, Carolyn Steinman pointed out how appropriate it is that a student from Canada's capital will be represented at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Israel's capital city.

The Zelikovitz Family/Hebrew University/University of Ottawa Scholarship is an endowed fund. A receipt for tax purposes is given for all gifts and State of Israel Bonds are readily accepted by the University of Ottawa and directed to this fund. The Administration wishes to acknowledge with gratitude generous gifts to the academic exchange from the Max and Ida Nadohny Memorial Fund, from Sonia Kizell and from the Sara and Nathan Greenberg Memorial Fund.

For further information please contact Evelyn Greenberg at 564-2276.

HABERMAN FAMILY SCHOLARSHIP FUND ESSAY WINNER

The following essay was selected for the first prize in the contest that was conducted at Hillel Academy. The essay was submitted by Gabriel Rottman, age 13. He is the son of Howard and Rita Rottman.

Worst of Both Worlds

By Gabriel Rottman

Thoughts raced through his brain: several trillion operations per second, like a big super-computer but a flesh and blood machine who had emotions and problems like a regular teenager. More thoughts whizzed passed as the orange, rubber basketball was thrown to Jack Cohen. Jack was the star player for his parochial school's basketball team. It was the final game in the New York Secondary School Basketball Tournament. The game was being held at an inner-city high school in Queens. The majority of people in the school were African-Americans or Hispanics and Jack and his teammates felt out of place among so many people, but that was okay because the Afro-Americans would feel out of place among Jews. So because of this, Jack didn't do any socializing, he just played the game, which he did very well.

Billy Don Joe was a southerner who had moved to Queens with his parents when he was ten. Billy Don never cared for Blacks but he cared for Jews even less. The feelings of dislike were mutual among the rest of the white population but Billy Don was a little more open about it. Billy Don's scalp was as bald as a baby's bottom except for some hair on the top which had been neatly shaved into a swastika, the sign of the Third Reich and the Nazi regime of World War II.

Billy Don sat and watched the basketball game with contempt. Several thoughts whizzed through his head as well. Among them: "How could a bunch of damn Jew-boys be beatin' our team? That Cohen boy, if he's the one to win this game, I swear to God I'll fix his little wagon!"

Jack Cohen noticed the clock on the scoreboard. Twenty seconds were left in the game and the other team was up by one basket. The score was forty-eight to forty-six and his team's score was the latter. The referee's whistle suddenly came alive with a tweet. A foul had been called. Two shots were taken by the other team. Neither went in.

Finally, with three seconds left in the game, after numerous attempts, the "Rabbis" could not score. But Jack had not given up hope. His hope paid off. He got a three point shot that won the game with two seconds left to play. During those two seconds, double the several million operations per second were performed. And there Jack stood, a hero. The team picked him up on their shoulders and carried him off smiling and laughing.

At this moment in time Billy Don Joe was livid with rage. He was shaking with anger and the skin on his scalp surrounding the swastika was purple with the bottled up racist fire that burned in his gut.

Jack decided to pay a visit to the school bathroom. Billy Don decided to follow Jack to the deserted washroom and felt into step behind Jack, following Jack just far enough away so that Jack didn't notice him.

As Billy Don was walking he expelled some of his nervous energy fiddling with the fifty year old Nazi made stiletto that he carried in the pocket of his leather jacket.

Between the two teenagers, Jack Cohen and Billy Don Joe, there was a terrible contrast in emotions. Simply, one was furious and one was ecstatic, but both were on their way to a epic confrontation of races, feelings, backgrounds, religions and personal physical strength that neither would ever forget.

Jack reached the bathroom first and was washing his face when Billy Don walked in. Immediately, Jack knew he was in deep trouble.

Billy Don got his hand around Jack's throat and began to squeeze until Jack's face had turned a deep purple from lack of oxygen. All the while Billy Don was muttering "Goddamn, Jew-Boys!!"

But Jack was bigger and more agile than Billy Don. Jack, with the last ounce of strength, brought a knee into Billy Don's unprotected gut. Billy Don's grip on Jack's neck slipped and Billy Don went down gasping.

Jack was about to pick up the Neo-Nazi and to finish the fight when, suddenly, the stiletto was in Billy Don's hand and the blade sliced through the unprotected skin of Jack's shoulder.

Amazingly, Jack did not panic. He gathered his strength and gave a terrific kick to Billy Don's knife hand and the Nazi-made stiletto flew, making circles in the air, and splashed into a urinal.

Unarmed and with a broken rib, Billy Don ran out the door, right into the hands of Jack's teammates.

Outside, in the spring sunlight, after Jack's shoulder had been taken care of and Billy Don was strapped to an ambulance stretcher, Billy Don began to scream and yell at Jack.

Listen, you damn Jew-boy! You and your nigger allies can't take over the world! There's more like me, you s.o.b! Not just me! We'll hunt you down and you'll die like the dogs you are." Billy Don's face took on a sinister look as he said, "Just like World War II. A new age is dawning. Seig Heil! White Power!"

There were mixed reactions in the crowd of students. Some kids snickered sadistically at the wild speech, some kids raised some offending fingers and shouted some derogatory insults directed at Billy Don. Some just walked away with a look of disgust, but Jack stood his ground clutching at his injured shoulder, saying nothing. Jack knew Billy spoke the truth. He knew there were more people like Billy Don. But then a dimple formed in Jack's cheek. His lips formed a simple grin that played across his face for he knew that the Jew would be ready and watching so that the new age that Jack spoke of would never take place. The future of the world was uncertain. Jack Cohen was ready.

Sam Taller leaves Bequest to Foundation

The officers and directors of the Ottawa Jewish Community Foundation wish to acknowledge the bequest from the Estate of the late Samuel Taller which will be added to the Samuel and Arne Taller Endowment Fund.

Sam Taller was one of the founders of the Foundation and served as a director and treasurer in its early years.

Throughout his life time, Sam gave much of himself to many organizations in the community and this is an extension of his desire to insure the continuation of Jewish life in our city.

The officers and directors appreciate the concern and thoughtfulness of the late Sam Taller and wish the family continued good health and happiness.
